

Software Licence Agreement

You may not bypass any technical protection measure in the software.

These terms override all previous agreements between the parties.

The licensor acts as a data processor under applicable law.